“ My deepest condolences to the family. I can't imagine your loss.

A few years ago I was visiting my mom before she died and she told me that she had run into Ms. Reeves. She said that Ms. Reeves had asked for me to come by the school when I was home - that she wanted to see me. I was well past 50 at the time. I couldn't believe she was still teaching.

I went by South Haven and was quickly directed to her class. It was a "Proustian Moment". The smell of the chalk, the bulletin boards, and Ms. Reeves -- I was six years old again. I was sent back in a time machine and was in Ms. Reeves' class again. Almost nothing had changed -- except it was 50 years on and we were both much older. But I was still "Jimmy" and she was still Ms. Reeves. She introduced me to her class -- a mind still as sharp as a tack. She remembered details I couldn't remember. Details of one class so long ago mixed in with almost 60 others.

Ms. Reeves will always be my favorite teacher. What a way to start an education. I sent a donatiion to St. Jude's -- a donation long overdue. She is still teaching me.

*Oh how many, through the generations have been touched by your teaching,
love, and tender considerations?
Never by preaching,
but GOD shone through you, in several itineration's.*

*Shew me thy way, O LORD; teach me thy paths.
Lead me in thy truth, and teach me... Ps 25-4,5*

*Oh how many, through the years
did she inspire to learn,
and how many did get hugged – drying their tears?
GOD touched her to discern how to calm children's fears.*

*“Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not;
for of such is the Kingdom of GOD” Luke 18:16*

*Oh how many, through the years were her own?
two children, two grandchildren, and one great grandchild are in her line,
But all in her classroom knew that they were at home.
A teacher and a grandmother to generations – so kind!
She inspired us all – so blessed are we – her to have known!*

*Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old,
He will not depart from it. Prov 22:6*

“ So sorry for your loss of a precious lady. Mrs. Reeves left a strong impression on my life through her career as well as her positive perspectives on life. Her loving, nurturing personality fostered an environment that spawned growth spiritually and intellectually, along with making each child more self confident. I am thankful I was one of those children.
